

Muntons PRESS RELEASE

Certificate Presentation at Muntons plc

1st March 2007 saw the presentation of a further two certificates to Muntons personnel. The informal event was held at Muntons Stowmarket Suffolk.

This was the third certificate presentation ceremony in the last five months, which underlines their commitment to recognise and reward success.

On this occasion seven certificates were presented for success in passing the Supervising Health and Safety course, one for passing the HACCP Principles and two for further internal Food Hygiene certificates.

ent certificates to Muntons plc at their headquarters in that Muntons have hosted over the last five months, which underlines their commitment to training and their desire to ted for successes in passing the Supervising Health and Safety course, one for passing the Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Points (HACCP) Principles and two for further internal Food Hygiene certificates feel proud of what they have achieved.”

One of the Health and Hygiene Certificate recipients, Carl Bailey, commented that the course was “very relevant to Muntons.”

This was echoed by Alistair Wesson who passed the HACCP Principles course run by the Royal Institute for Public Health who added “With HACCP, the course was very informative and raises issues that you would not

The certificate presentations are hosted by Alan Richardson, Managing Director of Muntons, who commented: “This provides us with a good opportunity to recognise and reward success but also the chance to discuss together the benefits to both the company and the individual.”

Simon Jackson, who successfully passed “Supervising Health and Safety,” run by Oak Tree training said, “This was definitely the best course I have been on so far and the most useful.” He continued, “I think that this certificate presentation ceremony is good too, as it makes people s, Carl Bailey, commented that the ACC Principles course run by the Royal Institute for Public Health who added “With HACCP, the course was very informative and raises issues that you would not deal with. Managing Director of Muntons, who commented: “This provides us with a good opportunity to recognise and reward success but also the chance to discuss together the benefits to both the company and the individual.”

19th March 2007
MMI Marketing